Col. Charles Lindbergh will visit the Republic of Haiti during his present "good will" tour which yesterday found him in Managua, Nicaragua.

Governor Al Smith of New York, virtually refused intervention to save Ruth Snyder and Iddo Gray from the chair yesterday.

Saying that he wished to honor his mother, who was the only one who had ever helped him, Chas. Smith, of Lansing, O., yesterday asked in court to change his name to that formerly borne by his mother.

The property at 455 Dehaven street, Chicago, where the fire which swept the city in 1871 is said to have started when a cow kicked over a lantern, is now worth $38,000 it was reported yesterday.

Saying that every policeman in Philadelphia was a grafter, Mayor Mackey yesterday launched an appeal to Quaker town authorities to reform.

John Carlson, 75-year-old Indian war veteran of Oakland, left his wife $1 in his will, turning her in the bequest "my life's curse." The greater part of his estate goes to needy old men.

The store left three girls at the Earl Sexton home in Gillett, Wis., and on each visit Sexton prayed for a boy. The store called again. "It's a boy," the doctor announced. And then, triplets, making it three boys," he cried. Sexton swooned.

YOUTH PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO TWO CHARGES

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—For the second time in three days, William Edward Hickman this afternoon stood before Superior Judge Carlos Hardy to answer to a charge of murder.

The youth who, last Tuesday afternoon, pleaded "not guilty" by reason of insanity to charges of kidnapping and murdering 12-year-old Marian Parker, today declared himself to be "not guilty" of the killing of C. Ivy Toms, Los Angeles druggist, in a hold-up on Christmas eve, 1926. His trial was set for 9:30 a. m. February 1, an apparent formality, as he goes on trial on January 25 for the murder of the Parker girl.

PLEADS TWICE
Hickman pleaded twice. First he pleaded a simple "not guilty" when the indictment charging him with the murder of Toms was read.

When his attorney, Jerome Walsh of Kansas City, addressed the court:

"I have just discovered the exact form under California law, in which the second plea should be done," he said.

Judge Hardy directed that the defendant state his plea himself.

HICKMAN CALM
Hickman, in a clear voice, read from a slip of paper handed to him.

Motorist Pays $10 Fine For Physics Talk

It cost Fred Nebeling of San Rafael just $10 for a ten-minute lecture course in physics yesterday. Nebeling had never thoroughly understood the Theory of Force, it appeared.

Yesterday afternoon after a trip to Berkeley, where he went to collect a sum of money due him, he was hurrying along Cutting boulevard in an attempt to catch the Richmond-San Rafael ferry.

LECTURE ADMINISTERED
In Police Judge C. A. Odell's court he readily admitted that he was traveling approximately 45 miles per hour. Judge Odell got his pencil and paper busy and showed Nebeling that at the rate of speed he was traveling together with the weight of the car and its occupants, he had in his hands a force capable of striking a blow of 330,000 pounds.

"Motorists do not realize what danger they are when they speed," said Judge Odell. "Just think this over and remember the figures."

"I won't forget it very soon," said Nebeling. "It cost me $10."

Suicide

DETERMINED that "if we can't live together, we'll die together," Grace Mills, 18 (above), and Joseph F. Buckley, 23, both of Waltham, Mass., kept a suicide pact, resulting in the death of the girl. Buckley is lying in a hospital. Miss Mills' parents refused to consent to her marriage to Buckley.

Indictment Is Returned In 'Sack Murder'

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—Dr. Charles M. McMillan probably will be arraigned tomorrow to answer to the charge of murdering Mrs. Amelia Appleby, whose body was found bound in a sack near San Fernando, Christmas night.

An indictment charging murder was returned by the grand jury today.

Mrs. Appleby's safe deposit box in a local bank was opened today, and found to contain a quantity of jewelry and a number of papers and documents, which are now being studied. The jewelry, which has not yet been valued, is believed to be of an inexpensive nature, amounting, probably, to only a few hundred dollars in all.

HUNT JEWELRY
Search for jewelry valued at $60,000, which Mrs. Appleby is believed to have owned, is still in progress.

County Chemist Abernathy reported today that an analysis of spots on an overcoat said to belong to Dr. McMillan, revealed that they were blood.

Dr. McMillan, who acted as business agent for Mrs. Appleby, has consistently maintained his innocence.

The size of Mrs. Appleby's estate is a matter of conjecture. According to some estimates, it may range from $500,000 to $1,000,000. Dr. McMillan has declared that the property was imposing on paper, but was heavily encumbered.

A will leaving the property to Dr. McMillan was found among papers in the doctor's apartment, according to sheriff's investigators. The estate may become the subject of litigation, it was indicated today.

Mrs. Appleby has a number of relatives. It was reported today a Los Angeles attorney, acting for certain relatives of her husband, had telegraphed to Chicago for information bearing upon Appleby's death in 1917.

The husband, John S. Appleby, of Chicago, inventor of binder twine, is said to have died under mysterious circumstances. At that time his son asked for an investigation to determine if death had been caused by poison. The matter came to no result.

REPORT PURELY GUESSWORK IS KELLOGG DEFY

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Official Washington today looked askance at reports from Nicaragua that the bandit leader, Sandino, has established a republic in the remote province of Nueva Segovia where he and his followers are resisting the attacks of American marines.

Neither the State Department nor the Navy Department, both of which are in close touch with Nicaraguan affairs, have been advised of the formation of the so-called republic and officials were inclined to doubt that the bandit leader would attempt such a program.

Regardless, however, of any pretensions which Sandino may make about governing the territory dominated by his guerrilla army, it was indicated that the United States will continue its plans to effect his capture or to drive him from the country so that peace may be restored once again to all parts of the little republic.

SAIL THURSDAY
The Navy Department disclosed that plans are virtually complete for mobilization of the additional 1,000 marines who will sail next Tuesday for Nicaragua to aid in the hunt for Sandino. The giant Plover transport plane, to be flown to Managua by Major Louis Bourne, will be sent from Philadelphia.

NEW PRICES ON AUTOS AWAITED

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—New prices of motor cars are the chief concern of manufacturers, advertising men and the public awaiting the opening of the Twenty-eighth Annual National Automobile Show here Saturday afternoon.

The public is always interested in new prices. History shows that a definite downward trend in prices has always preceded record sales of cars.

Every new price announced so far has been downward. Automobile leaders here for the show already are preparing for the largest year in their history.

The advertising problem is more difficult this year. Representatives of the companies appear to be holding back announcements until the last minute before the show. One man said, "we all are waiting to see what the other fellow is going to do."

Most of the manufacturers have issued statements saying that greater dollar value would be given, in automobiles this year than ever before. This comes about, they state, through increased production expected and advanced production methods developed during the last six months.

Starts Plumbing Business Here

C. V. Bradbury of Oakland has purchased the plumbing business of A. Nutter, at 266 Twelfth street, and in the future will conduct the establishment under the name of the Richmond Plumbing and Heating company.

Bradbury has had a wide range of experience and has been occupied in his business for many years in Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda.

The store is being completely remodeled, and a large and attractive display of plumbing fixtures installed.

As soon as it can be conveniently arranged, Bradbury will move to Richmond to make his home, he announced yesterday.

Twenty-five families were given relief, 13 families were investigated, 250 pieces of clothing distributed, 46 pairs of shoes given away, 15 persons referred to other agencies, employment found for 17 persons and 40 errands made.

$20,000 Damages Asked In Suit
MARTINEZ, Jan. 5.—Damages of $20,000 for injuries she sustained on December 12, last, when she was struck down by an automobile said to have been driven by H. O. Wuesthoff, 19, are asked by Grace O. Whittier, in suit she filed here today against the youth and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Wuesthoff. The woman charges that careless driving by the youth resulted in her being hit by his car at Tenth street and Macdonald avenue, Richmond. She declares she sustained a fracture of her right leg, internal injuries, shock and cuts and bruises about the face and body. In addition to the damage judgment, she asks a verdict for $250 for expenditures for medical treatment. The action was filed through the firm of Ford, Johnson and Bourquin.

Spurr Chosen To Head Realtors

Basil Spurr was last night chosen chairman of the Richmond Realty Salesmen club at the annual election of officers held at a dinner in the Hotel Carquinez. Twelve members of the organization were present and short talks were made on the benefits derived from the club.

Other officers elected were: Lloyd Bolt, vice-chairman; Paul Adkins, director and Harry Praelis secretary-treasurer.

The club will continue to hold its breakfast meetings Tuesdays at 8 o'clock.

Name J. O. Ford In Damage Suit

MARTINEZ, Jan. 5.—Injured on January 8, when he was struck down in Richmond by an automobile driven it is said by J. O. Ford, Richmond tax collector, Raymond J. Alexander, 15-year-old student, today filed suit against Ford asking damages of $20,000 and remuneration of $271 he expended for medical attention. The youth filed the suit through his mother, Mrs. Frances Alexander.

The youth declares that Ford's car hurled him 20 feet and says that his right leg was fractured and that he suffered nervous shock. His injuries, he declares, resulted in his scholastic standing suffering from non-attendance at school. Responsibility for the accident is charged to Ford in the suit.

The action was filed through Attorneys Hall Sanders and W. T. Kearney.

Sue Cement Firm For Eradication Of Rodent Pest

MARTINEZ, Jan. 5.—With a strenuous fight presaged, trial started before a jury today in Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie's department of a suit instituted by the County of Contra Costa against the Cowell Cement Company seeking judgment of $1800 for squirrel eradication work performed on the company's property near Cowell by Y. G. Stevens, county horticulture commissioner.

Asserting that he viewed the damage as a test suit, W. H. George, manager of the cement concern, declared that his company is taking up the cudgel for farmers in opposition to the "force account" work of county officials.

Confessing that the company was not taking proper steps for rodent eradication Stevens endorsed the property last summer and directed extermination work by county crews.

George contends that the company was doing the work itself and says that Stevens "ran up a terrific bill" from which "we have never been able to see any results."

Should the county secure a judgment it would constitute a lien against the company's property until it is paid.

The suit is being prosecuted by District Attorney T. B. Tinning with Attorney A. F. Bray appearing for the defense.

Judge: Shut Up Or Go Up! Attorney: I'll Get Out! D. A.: Oh, No You Won't!

WALNUT CREEK, Jan. 5.—Climaxing a stormy trial and one marked by clashes between opposing counsel, Attorney Frank Creeley of Oakland was faced with a warning by Justice of the Peace George Duncan that repetition of a statement to the court would result in the lawyer being held in contempt and being sent to jail.

Protesting vigorously against the judge fixing bail of $1000 for two of his clients while an appeal was being taken, Creeley declared that it appeared that the court was taking its cue from the district attorney office.

"If there is a repetition of that statement the court will hold you in contempt and send you to jail," Judge Duncan warned.

"If I am sent to jail I'll get out right away," Creeley responded.

"Oh, no you won't," Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoey promised.

When Creeley announced an appeal Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoey asked the court to fix bail at $1000. When the court made the requested order the clash between attorney and judge occurred.

Immediately after the sentencing of the two women, Mrs. Booth's husband, E. V. Booth, 25, was arrested on the same charge that his wife faced. When he failed to deposit bail of $500 he was taken to the county jail at Martinez to await trial on his not guilty plea. Booth announced that he would ask a change of venue from Judge Duncan's court.

CLINGING TO DONKEY

The democratic women's auxiliary of Philadelphia has formally and emphatically resolved and decided that the attempt to substitute the eagle for the donkey as the democratic party emblem is unfair and should be frowned on. The democratic women of this honorable body are absolutely right but their resolution needed a slight addition to the effect that the element of unfairness would be towards the eagle.

The democratic party never was and never will be an eagle party. The democratic party with its Tammany and Boss Tweed and with its record of city, state and federal treasury looting, lives and thrives in an atmosphere that would stifle the eagle. Their adherence to the donkey, accordingly, is proper and logical and they are to be congratulated on their frankness though not their wisdom in confessing that they will hold to the donkey as the symbol of their party because he is a docile animal when pleased, but knows how to kick when displeased.

SELF-PITY AND SUCCESS

Feeling sorry for herself is not the way for a woman to succeed in business. It is not the way for a man to succeed in business either, but few men were not up for discussion in the address made recently by Miss Phillips of New York, national president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

The tendency to indulge in a little self-commissioner is a hang-over from the days of woman's servitude, she says, and it is awfully bad business. Vision, courage, endurance and faith in themselves are qualities much more likely to lead to success.

It is sound advice, which no doubt will become less needed as more women succeed in business and therefore inspire the timid ones.

An Oklahoma farmer has started a presidential boom for himself. He promises if elected, to abolish strikes and bank failures, to eliminate the need of penitentiaries and to re-write the Constitution of the United States. Wonder what he intends to do when he gets all of that done?

The voters of Maine voted to sustain the primary. But out of 200,000 possible voters there were about 35,000 votes for the primary and 19,000 against. Thus the vote on the primary again demonstrates the fallacy of the primary. This is an excellent example of minority rule.

A Chicago bride who thought her husband was a business man of the prosperous variety came down town one day and found him sitting on the street corner with a tincup. Probably she would have been less shocked and surprised had she found him dining with a couple of flappers.

How To Earn Money!

"I've just got to run down town and do a little shopping," said Mrs. Jones to her neighbor, Mr. Smith, "and I wonder if you will care for the children while I'm gone. You don't mind, do you?" Of course, Mrs. Smith doesn't really mind, but taking care of children is a responsibility and worry. And if kind-hearted Mrs. Smith had charged for all the children she's taken care of she could buy herself a new vacuum cleaner! There is no reason why she should not charge about 25 to 50 cents an hour. There are more mothers who would get out for a little recreation in the afternoon, if they were sure that their children were well watched by an older, competent woman. With different children in the neighborhood coming to her on different days of the week, any woman ought to find such work pleasant and profitable.

I am a young man working myself through college. I am a good "graphologist." This is a hobby of mine and I studied it myself many years. Would you please advise me how to get a start?—W. V. G.

Have you noticed recently the advertisements of a pencil company that employs a psychologist to read the scribbles you make unconsciously when you are telephoning or waiting for some one? Why not write to the pencil companies or fountain pen firms and ask if they would like you to read handwriting for their customers?

I shall appreciate any help you can give me in selling these designs, as it is for an aged man who is unable to work.—A. B. C.

It is splendid of you to try to help out this aged man. But I do not think you will be able to sell the designs, since that kind of work depends on expert training as well as talent, and usually employment with some definite concern. I'll be glad to send the address of a place that gives old people employment that will not tax their strength.

WHY I BLUSHED

A girl friend of mine gave me some brown velvet dress goods, but I couldn't figure how to have it made up. On the subway I saw a girl who was wearing just the dress I wanted. Taking out a pencil, I hurriedly started to sketch it. Looking up, I found my model gone. I certainly blushed when I found that she had taken a seat right next to me and was looking at my drawing, which she couldn't help recognizing as that of her own dress.

Polly—Really, we wouldn't be taking this trip to Europe if Uncle John hadn't cleaned up that fortune in crooked dough.

Kate—What was he, anyway, a counterfeiter?

Polly—Oh, no, a pretzel manufacturer.

Affairs of the Heart and Your Marriage Problems

The pattern for marriage has changed without a doubt—changed gradually but surely, until now those who hold to old-time ideas on the matter seem to be confused and not sure of the ground on which they stand.

When a mother admits that her daughter shouldn't have to "stand for the things that she stood for" and a daughter says "my brother's wife should have lived in the sixteenth century" they are but echoing the feelings of thousands who, perhaps, can't express their thoughts and feelings in words. Marriage and the founding of a family have been taken so far for granted. It has been assumed that marriage was a thing that "happened" (as it has for centuries) and that the establishing of a family needed no particular thought or study except from an economic point of view.

Young people avoided considering the subject except in its sentimental aspects and older people when they realized that their marriage "had gone wrong" literally shrugged their shoulders and accepted the thing with an assumed fortitude.

But the pattern has really changed and isn't it up to the older-in-love-ways folks to help by their experience and the younger folk to give a little attention to the study of this new model in order that marriage progress in its development on its new lines?

Dear Patricia Lee: Although I have never written to any newspaper column before, I could not refrain from doing so after reading the letter of Gertrude T. in this paper. May I add my humble indorsements to your belief in love at first sight? Nine years ago I met a man and, as in the case of Gertrude, it was love at first sight for both of us. In less than five months we were married, and every one predicted a speedy termination of the marriage.

You have a lot to be thankful for in having such a wife, and I do hope that you can make her see your way in being interested in something outside of the home and getting more out of life. Of course, some women are so constituted that their joy comes from just what your wife is doing but most of them want to keep the companionship of their husbands. Try to make her see your way by insisting on taking her to the theatre and out to dinner and see that she is entertained and wants to go again.

Curve and Bulge Have No Place In Winter Fashions

"Neither curves nor bulges are permissible in the new winter styles," according to Anne Rittenhouse, noted fashion authority, writing in the January McCall's.

"This is achieved," she says, "by small armholes and tight, long sleeves which enhance the sharp contour. There's nothing casual about the new clothes. They're as ship-shape as a man-of-war's deck. Much of this trimness is achieved by the armhole that fits. It doesn't rest on the arm, but on the shoulder. That narrows the shoulder line and not only secures smoothness, but gives the body a more erect appearance. A few armholes are extended to the neckline in narrow panels.

"When sleeves are missing, the armhole is very deep under the arms in an evening frock, but snug in a day gown.

"The fashion of the winter is to make one garment look like two. The chemise effect has had its day as we know, but women must keep in mind that a marked division must be made by a girde, a treatment of the material, a buckle belt of an opposing fabric. In other words, one-piece frocks masquerade as two. You can see by these new frocks how diverse are the ways of doing it. No two designers of clothes agree, so no two frocks need be alike. It makes it possible for each of us to achieve individuality.

"Green is the smart color for winter. There are many green hats in the Second Empire shade or a deeper tone. Green duvetyne handbags are smart. Vanity cases are of green leather called sham. Umbrellas are in several shades of green, the lighter green, the better. Jewelry is light green, especially necklaces. Frocks and hats are built in four different shades of the new green, with the embroidery decorations in green and silver. Fur neck pieces are of lynx and brown fox."

BEWARE OF MARRIED MEN BY ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc. "BEWARE OF MARRIED MEN," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Myra, secretary to Leonard, a divorce lawyer, to whom she is engaged, is guardian of her younger sister, Helene. She is worried by her sister's infatuation for Huntley Sheldon, a notorious rascal whose wife, Rita, is making a fourth attempt to divorce him. Sheldon asks Helene to his winter lodge, but Myra, discovering the invitation, locks Helene in her room. In an effort to force Helene to give up Helene, she goes to the lodge, disguised, representing herself as a member of the Young Girls Welfare League. Sheldon recognizes Myra and, to even scores, pretends to have a heart attack.

"The young lady didn't seem to be at home, sir. Leastwise, I couldn't get no answer," Michel was explaining volubly. "I knocked and knocked and knocked, but seems like I couldn't get no one."

Sheldon cut him short. "It's all right, Michel. The young lady arrived herself. That's all for to-night." He shut the door quickly and rushed back to his lounge. Good thing he had said pills. His visitor would have to stop for a glass of water, and that had given him enough time to get the chauffeur out of the way.

Upstairs Myra searched frantically for the little round box. At last she discovered it way back on a top shelf. That must be the one, she decided. Anyway it was a doctor's prescription. She started to fill a glass of water. Suddenly she thought she heard sounds of voices. She shut off the running water and listened. No, that was Sheldon's voice—probably talking in his de-trium. She turned on the water again, and then rushed back towards the hallway with the glass and the pills. She looked down over the balcony. Yes, there was Sheldon on the lounge, still talking wildly. She hurried to him.

Once more she began to administer the medicine finding it difficult to get Sheldon to open his mouth long enough to force the water down. Sheldon grained, inwardly. Damn the medicine, he said to himself. He'd probably be sick in reality if he had to take any more of the foul stuff. But Michel more of the foul stuff. But Michel was apt to be his last caller, so he wouldn't have to have any more "apella." And anyhow, it was worth it, no matter what happened. Worth anything to get even with this encephalitis, modeling woman who seemed to be trying to thrust herself into his affairs without rhyme or reason.

Again he grew more calm and seemed to be resting a little more easily. He was glad he didn't have to act a part every night. It was certainly a strenuous game. He thought longingly of a cigarette, but remembered that he had heart trouble, and he seemed to recollect that people with heart trouble weren't supposed to smoke. So he gave up the idea. He watched Myra closely and at the first sign of movement from her began to grow worse, now nothing, now talking incoherently. Then he decided to try something else.

Suddenly he sat bolt upright, with what he intended as a "mad gleam" in his eyes. He stared at Myra, as though fascinated. And as he started the "mad gleam" began to soften and over his face came a look of infinite sorrow, softening the harsh lines that he had been making. With a voice that held a kind of wild awe he murmured: "You're beautiful—so beautiful—so lovely—his voice trailed off peacefully, and tears came into his eyes.

Myra stared at Sheldon, at first frightened. She half rose from her chair. Then she decided that the man must be quite completely out of his head. She had never had much experience in dealing with people who were out of their heads, but she decided that they probably could be dealt with about the same way as one deals with lunatics—by humoring them. So she smiled soothingly and tried to say: "Yes, yes, in a very soft, reassuring manner.

But Sheldon, evidently, was not to be soothed so easily. He began to try to stagger to his feet, seeming to have forgotten all about the arm until it hurt. "But it's only a dream—only a dream. In a minute I'll wake up and find you gone. No, no, don't leave me. Don't leave me." He clutched her frantically.

"No, no, I won't leave you. There, now, it's all right. It's all right," Myra soothed. It was so funny Sheldon almost laughed. He was staring at the girl, and she did seem to have grown prettier than when she had first presented herself. In her excitement she had taken off her glasses and a faint color had come into her cheeks. Her hair pulled back so tightly had managed to work loose from the restraining pins and fell more softly about her face. But she was not the stuffy, feminine type that appealed to Sheldon, and it seemed amusing to him that she should bring back his senses. Under the ministrations he seemed to rest more easily now.

Once or twice Myra tried to pull her hand away, but each time Sheldon only clutched it more tightly, still murmuring: "No—no, don't leave. You mustn't leave me now. My beautiful—beautiful—dream—girl." His voice would trail off into whisper until he was forced to speak again to keep Myra beside him. And each time he grew more frantic in his "delirium" that she finally decided that the best thing she could do would be to keep very still and ward off any of his returning attacks.

She sat there pondering what to do next. She hoped Helene would go to bed and not worry about her. But Helene would probably do no worrying tonight. She was too angry. There was no one to worry about her, actually. Leonard was out of town—he wouldn't call. And there was no one else who would think it strange that she should be out. But she couldn't remain here all night. If only some help would come. She couldn't even leave, for each time she stirred Sheldon became violent.

After a while she began to listen for sounds which might herald the arrival of a servant or visitor. But the servants were all in their proper quarters over the garage and not interested in what was going on in the house. Between long intervals of silence she could hear the faint stir of a motor passing swiftly along the road. But they were too far away to signal for help.

Now it was growing late, and the passing cars became even more infrequent. The small, whirling night sounds took up their chorus, humming softly and soothingly. An impressive stillness, pregnant with sound that was never born, stole over the woods and bushes. The shrill, wooden hoar of an owl cranked and was still. Small strings filled the underbrush, but left no mark within the heavily curtained house.

Now the fire began to die out, the red glow becoming more red and the blackness of the surrounding night. Great shadows leapt and played at his feet, heavy warmth enveloped the room. Little by little Myra's head began to nod drowsily. At last she slipped further down in her chair, and her drooping head rested against the high, cushioned back of the big armchair.

A colorful talk on her trip to Europe and the Orient was given by Miss Nellie Douglas at the Presbyterian Aid society meeting held yesterday afternoon in the cozy church parlors. Miss Douglas is a pleasing and fluent speaker and she told of the many non-Christian temples which she visited while on her trip. Many quaint customs and weird superstitions were brought out in her interesting account. Her narrative yesterday touched Japan, Korea, China and India.

A short business session, with Mrs. Crabb, president of the aid, in the chair, preceded the address and a lively discussion took place on "making calls," an art neglected during the busy holidays.

Bandit Rendezvous In Reach Of Auto

An interesting one day trip for motorists in Southern California is the one to Vasquez Rocks, the reputed one-time rendezvous of the notorious half-bred, Tubercio Vasquez, according to Tourist Department of the National Automobile Club.

This historic spot is reached by way of San Fernando Road, Mint Canyon, thence through the Agua Dulce Canyon for a distance of two miles. Vasquez hailed from Monterey in its heyday of wealth, and his name inspired fear up and down the coast, for his robbing exploits were on a par with those of the notorious bandit, Juan Murietta.

This rugged retreat is a large area of uplifted rock, extending from Agua Dulce Canyon through to Soledad Canyon and consisting of many sharp cliffs, precipitous canyons, caves and tunnels. A more ideal lair than this could hardly be imagined for the sanctuary of Vasquez and his gang and it is easy to imagine that many fatal pistol shots may have echoed from its granite wall. In 1894, Bad-man Rule was superseded by civilization and the picturesque life of this bandit leader was brought to an end by a posse of Americans in May of that year, near the then little hamlet of Los Angeles.

HATTON, BEERY IN AIR FARCE AT CALIFORNIA

A carefully selected cast of experienced screen players surrounds Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in their latest comedy riot, "Now We're in the Air," which comes to the California Theatre today. Frank Strayer directed this Paramount picture from a story by Monte Brice and Keene Thompson and screen play by Tom J. Geraghty.

Louise Brooks, the leading woman, who has a dual role, playing twin sisters of different nationalities, which can only be done in a comedy, is one of the most popular young beauties of the Paramount organization.

Her distinctive bob and charm appeared to advantage in "Rolled Stockings," in the Adolphe Menjou picture, "Evening Clothes," and before that in "The American Venus," "It's the Old Army Game" and "A Social Celebrity."

Michael White, the villain of the picture, will be best remembered for his work in another Beery-Hatton picture, "We're in the Navy Now," in which he also had the role of an enemy spy. Waite was the heavy in the Charles Chaplin picture, "The Gold Rush."

Emile Chautard and Russell Simpson are veterans of the stage and screen. As two of the most popular character actors in Hollywood they have appeared in scores of important productions. Chautard's last assignment with Paramount was in "Beau Sabreur," and before that he played Adolphe Menjou's father-in-law in "Blonde or Brunette."

Duke Martin, who plays the top sergeant, is one of the most promising young heavy types in Hollywood. His last important role was as a gangster in the Thomas Meighan picture, "The City Gone Wild."

Other features include another story of "The Collegians," featuring George Lewis; "Hawaii from a Car Window"; and current news events.

GIAN-NAH-TAH GROUP PLANS PICNIC SUPPER
A picnic luncheon will be held tomorrow by the Gian-nah-tah group of Campfire Girls at the First Presbyterian church. All the girls are requested to be present. Miss Thelma Wagner, guardian, will be in charge of the meeting, which will follow the luncheon.

POIGNANT FILM OF THE WEST AT RICHMOND

One of the most poignant and powerful dramatic scenes in the new Zane Grey story "Nevada" as pictured by Paramount, is the death of Ernie S. Adams in the arms of Gary Cooper.

The two are pals, closer than brothers, living the lives of roving cowpunchers with reputations as two-gun men. In a battle with cattle rustlers, Adams is shot down by William Powell. Cooper comes upon the scene just as his pal is breathing his last.

"I've always been looking for a quiet place to settle down and rest," says Adams, "and now I've found it."

Cooper goes nearly mad when his friend dies. He cradles Adams' head in his arms and vows vengeance. Like a blood hound on the trail he sets off in search of Powell, a killer who will not be stopped.

He finds Powell with Thelma Todd, the girl he loves, and she begs him not to shoot. Gary wrestles with the cruel problem—his love for the girl on the one hand, his hatred of Powell and the cry for vengeance on the other. And, in a very strange manner, he manages to keep his promise to the girl and still avenge Adams.

John Waters, director, has handled this situation in a very skillful manner. See it at the Richmond Theatre today and tomorrow. Philip Strange has the fourth featured role in "Nevada." Other film features include the last thrilling chapter of "The Golden Stallion"; and "Ko Ko Gets Excited," a cartoon comedy.

This lighting improves a room's appearance
If you wish to improve a room's appearance in an easy, inexpensive way, do it with good lighting.
The money you spend for one of these lamps does more to improve a room than the same money spent for other furnishings.
For the abundant, soft, colorful light makes an "interior" seem lovelier. It's just like redecorating the whole room.
This lamp is different from any other lamp. There is a reflector under the silk shade that diffuses or scatters the light. This is the new principle of design that combines beauty with good lighting and eliminates harmful gloom and glare.
The lamps (both floor and table) have a base finished in silver or gold and there is a selection of four silk shades. You can see them at our office.

CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS

—This Man Claims

"EXTENUATING CONDITIONS"

—Says It Wasn't His Fault!

Tells About How It Happened

Basing purchases on a normal demand for the Nine years he has been in Richmond, the man who does the bulk of the buying for this Store admits that he greatly overestimated the Pre-Holiday merchandise requirements of the present season.

This "Over-Purchase" is undoubtedly due to the fact that he failed to take into account a Temporary Shrinkage in the amount of money ordinarily available for Christmas Buying—not only here, but to a greater or lesser extent in other communities.

We can now see that a falling-off in business under such conditions was to be expected; and as this Store sells for Cash, the shortage perhaps is more apparent than with stores where Credit Buying is encouraged; a condition that Now calls for immediate Action—

SANTA FE'S IN WIN, STRINGER TEAM ON TOP

The Santa Fe Tie Walkers actually won a basketball game! Believe it or not but it's the truth—the whole truth and nothing but the truth! The Mechanic Bankers were the goats, as usual, losing 35 to 21. But the Bankers had strengthened their defense and held the Tie Walkers down for a half which ended 11 to 10 in favor of the Tie Walkers. But they weakened in the second half.

The inevitable happened—the Stringer Smoke Shop won again—this time defeating the Ben Malik quintet 31 to 13 in a fast and furious game. You cannot get around the fact that the Stringer team has more speed and more team-work or what have you than any other team in the league. They proved it last night.

Dyer in the first minute of play shot a bucket; followed through with two fouls; A Huzefka made a bucket; Bertone then scored with a foul; Bunny Muth came through with a bucket; Dyer got another and Hutton sank a foul.

Ernest Barberie, shot a point to open the second quarter; A Huzefka smiled and added two points to the score; Muth followed; Huzefka got a foul then; Lowell Dyer shot a bucket and two fouls. Mr. Dyer, we might state, was very much in evidence.

Gabriel Vargas, whose floor work drew numerous comments (mostly bad) from the gallery, opened the second half with a long one. It was quite a surprise to the fans—also to Vargas. Bertone who makes up his loss of size and weight in speed got a foul; Chatterton followed with another; Lee got a bucket; Gillians got one and Millicevich ended the quarter with a bucket.

McLaughlin opened the last quarter with a point; a bucket for Willie Millicevich; one for Gillian; one for Bertone and two fouls and a bucket for Mr. Dyer. That ended it.

Assistant Coach Gabriel Vargas of the Ben Malik announced last night that his team will hold practice on Nicholl field tonight at 5 o'clock. All players are urged to turn out in cords or football suits.

Gualdoni, the well-known man-about-town who has set countless feminine hearts to beating furiously started the Tie Walker-Banker game with a bucket; Engleman, he's little but he's mighty, got a long one; Arthur made a point; Gualdoni got a bucket; Grafft made one and Gualdoni ended the quarter with a foul.

Davis made a point to start the second quarter; Grafft got two points; Arthur got two; Marcus made one; a foul for Arthur; Grafft made two and Grandi a bucket to end the half.

Paul Villalobos, the handsome coal heavier made a bucket; Grafft followed with one; Paul got another and then two fouls and Torrence got a bucket.

Handsome Gualdoni started the last quarter with a bucket; Arthur got one; Tandy got one; Tuula the same; Mr. Gualdoni a point; Mr. Grafft, ditto; same to Tandy; ditto Arthur, the same for Mr. Gualdoni; Mr. Arthur

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

JOHNNY WILSON OKAYS JACK SHARKEY

Ran into Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion of the world, last night. Johnny had just returned from Boston with his pretty young wife, and was exchanging holiday greetings with the mob.

During his stay in Boston over the Christmas span, Wilson looked over Jack Sharkey while the Hub heavyweight was working out in preparation for his scheduled fight with Tom Heene, the New Zealander.

"Don't worry about Sharkey's hands," advised Wilson. "I watched Sharkey closely and his hands aren't falling to pieces. He was whipping in punches with both hands and didn't seem to be at all afraid of hurting them."

"He looks as good as he ever was, and I think he shouldn't have too much trouble in beating Heene. I've never seen Heene fight, but from what has been told me, Sharkey is easily the better boxer and a stiffer puncher."

I asked Johnny if he thought that there was any truth to the reports that the match would not go through.

"No, I don't," said the ex-champion. "Sharkey has nothing to gain by ducking this fellow and a clean win over him will make Jack stand out among the contenders."

I asked Tex Rickard if there existed a remote possibility that Sharkey and Heene would not go to the post on the night of January 13. Rickard snorted:

"Hell no. All that talk was started by managers of other heavyweights, who would do anything in the world to discredit a fighter like Sharkey."

And, knowing the source of some of the rumors of cancellation there may be something in what George Lewis says.

HILL DUFFY PUTS ON THE LOMSKI RAVE

Bill Duffy occasionally gets steamed up over a fighter, but rarely have I ever seen him so enthusiastic over any entry as he is over Leo Lomski, the Polish-Irish light heavyweight from Aberdeen, state of Washington.

Duffy has three fistic idols now, Lomski, Dempsey and Andy Di Vodi.

"That Lomski is the strongest youngster I have ever seen," Bill old Tex Rickard last night as they stood chatting in the lobby of Madison Square Garden. "He's as fast as a lightweight on his feet and, Tex, if he puts on fifteen pounds more, he'll knock off Tunney in a walk."

"I was out with him at Orangeburg, N. Y., the other day," continued Bill, as Tex manifested interest. "He turned in the greatest workout I have ever seen in a training camp."

"I like Tommy Loughran, both as a fighter and a friend, but Tex, it looks to me as though Lomski is a sure thing to beat Loughran next Friday. He's too strong for any of that division over a 5-round stretch."

Lomski is absolutely confident of winning over Loughran.

Duffy has already signed with Rickard for a Lomski-Slatery fight within two weeks of the Loughran fight.

DELANEY AND WINNER A "NATURAL" OUTDOORS

There is big money ahead in the light-heavyweight division as a result of the activity of Loughran, the titleholder. A fighting champion can make any division ring the cash register and Loughran has certainly been willing to let the boy in his class step up and take a poke at his crown.

The winner of the Loughran-Lomski fight can look ahead confidently to a big outdoor scrap next summer.

Rickard intends matching the winner of this January 6 shindig with Jack Delaney at the Yankee Stadium and those who are apt at figures think that such a meeting would gross over $500,000.

I don't know how Delaney and Joe Jacobs will take this proposition, although it is probable that Richard could hang up enough dough to lure Delaney back to his own class for one fight.

Loughran, I know, would love to get Delaney into a ring with him.

There is no love lost between this pair. When Jim Maloney was racing for his fight with Delaney, Dan Carroll, Maloney's manager, urged Loughran to stiffen the Maloney morale. Tommy never boxed with Maloney, but he was always with him, tell him that Delaney was a cinch for an aggressive fighter. Maloney followed Loughran around like a sheep-dog follows a shepherd.

Loughran is quite frank in his low opinion of Delaney. "He ran out of the light heavyweight class to avoid fighting me," Tommy says, "but SOME DAY I'll get him in a spot where he can't duck out of a meeting."

again; Tandy again and Arthur's ended it.

The Santa Fe team, by the way, will meet the Southern Pacific apprentices from Sacramento here January 16.

The line-ups: SANTA FE—Gualdoni, Tuula, Villalobos, forwards; Arthur, center; Torrence, Newman, Grandi and Bowen, guards.

BANKERS—Marcus, Tandy, Engleman and McDonald, forwards; Davis, Grafft, center; McLaughlin and Duncan, guards.

STRINGERS—Dyer, Muth, Gillian, A. Huzefka, Lee forwards; Muth, J. Huzefka, centers; Barberie, Cornell, Tamm and Huzefka, guards.

BEN MALIK—Hutton, Chatterton, Bertoni, forwards; Gadberry, Millicevich, centers; McLaughlin, Vargas, Paasch, guards.

All-Stars Defeat Keystone Cagers

The absence of one player from the quintet means nothing to the All-Stars team of the Boys Basketball league. With only four members present they played their game with the Keystone and defeated them by 22 to 17.

The Keystone put up a good fight, but the All-Stars managed to keep the ball in their opponents' territory throughout the game.

The score was fairly even in the first half, but after that the All-Stars got busy and dropped a shower of buckets.

The lineups for the two teams were: All-Stars—Page 12, and MacLinn 7, f.; Viano, 3, c; Garvin

EL MONTE—Alley from Lexington street, eastward to Las Flores Drive south of Main street will be paved.

That the Yanks have Gene Robertson, former St. Louis Brown and St. Paul third sacker, for use next season is being generously construed as a sure sign that Joe Dugan will be among those missing when the champions line up for 1928. Well, maybe so, but I am among those believing souls who will look for Jumping Joe at his old post next season—in the stadium.

Even with the rebuilding to which he subjected his knee after the close of the 1925 season, Joe's pins haven't been all that they might be in a young man playing what is known as the "hot corner," but I always think of what Stanley Harris, manager of the hunt in the seventh inning was a world's Series epic.

Jumping Joe has put eleven years into the big leagues, and it is but a natural consequence that he should have lost some of his speed. While he can't maintain same pace over a full season, Joe can still go get 'em with the best of third basemen for a time, and one of those times is in the spring, when he is fresh to start another season's work. Dugan has never been a heavy hitter, but he has always swatted lustily in the springtime. In addition, his fielding has been brightly and Joe played his full share in getting the Yanks off to a good start in both the 1926 and 1927 seasons.

There were times last season when Dugan looked considerably different from the young man who led all American League third basemen in 1922 and 1923; looked indeed, like a man with one leg; but there were also times when Joe looked like a centipede, and if you were lucky enough to see the third game of the World's Series with the Pirates, you may recall one of these latter occasions. His play on Hal Rhyne's

Senators, said last year when some observations were made in his presence that Dugan was slowing up.

"I'd play Joe Dugan in there," said Harris, "if he only had ONE leg!"

C. C. JUDGES TO OFFICIATE IN L. A. COURT

MARTINEZ, Jan. 5.—Contra Costa's two Superior Court judges, A. H. McKenna and H. V. Alvarado, must each spend two months of the year in the Los Angeles courts, according to an assignment they received today from the California Judicial Council. Outside judges are needed in Los Angeles to help clear congested calendars, the local jurists were informed.

Judge Alvarado is to spend February and July in Los Angeles and Judge McKenna has been assigned to the courts there during April and November.

The Judicial Council has placed Contra Costa county in Group 18 with Mendocino, Marin, Napa, Sonoma and Lake counties and in addition to the Los Angeles assignment to either of those counties if occasion demands.

Service in other counties is made obligatory upon the jurists on assignment by the council. In the case of counties in Group 13 the judges are accorded the privilege of working out their own assignments.

San Francisco, with eighteen Superior Court judges, has announced that its own judges will be able to handle all cases there. Los Angeles, with thirty-eight Superior Court judges, and twenty-four municipal court judges, declares that an additional ten Superior Court judges are necessary to handle the caseload there.

The result of the Los Angeles assignments will double the work on the judge remaining here during the absence of the other and will necessitate him handling the cases of both departments.

Fellowship Club Hears Sheriff

The Fellowship dinner of the Richmond churches was held last night in the Community Methodist church, beginning at 6 o'clock. The dinner was served by the ladies of that church. The president of the church fellowship, Dwight Parker, presided at the dinner. A delightful musical program was presented. There was a duet by Mrs. Sollars and Mrs. Seymour, accompanied by Mrs. Streeter at the piano. Rev. George Forman entertained with a solo. Under sheriff Wm. Yeale was the speaker of the evening and was introduced by Hutt Brown. He spoke on conditions as the sheriff's office finds them and its particular line of enforcement. He also spoke of difficulties encountered, and operation costs. The general feeling he said, was that Contra Costa county was in better shape in regard to law enforcement than most of the other counties of the state.

YOUTH PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO TWO CHARGES

(Continued From Page 1.) him by Walsh, a statement of about a hundred words, in the third person. The gist of it was that the defendant was "not guilty because he was insane at the time."

The Hickman defense, in both murder cases, now stands revealed as seeking to save the youth from the extreme penalty on insanity grounds. Should a jury find that Hickman killed Toms, the insanity angle would still be involved.

HUNT WITH "FOX"

With Hickman appeared young Welby Hunt, his confessed accomplice in the Toms hold-up. Both were indicted on murder charges by the grand jury this morning.

Attorney A. Gray Gilmer of Oklahoma City appeared for young Hunt. When Hunt was asked for his plea, Gilmer declared his client to be under 18 years of age. Judge Hardy asked him if he had proof, Gilmer replying affirmatively.

APPEARED SULKY

Hickman, who appeared sulkily during the proceedings, was led out after his trial date was set, and young Hunt remained leaning against a wall while Judge Hardy heard pleas in four other cases.

Hardly then asked Gilmer for proof of Hunt's age. Gilmer tendered a copy of the birth certificate. Asked if he desired to present any oral testimony, Gilmer called upon the defendant, Hunt, after saying he was the son of George L. Hunt, said he was born at Burham, Dewey County, Oklahoma, on February 20, 1911, making him 16 years of age.

Judge Hardy referred the case to Judge Scott of the Juvenile court who referred it back immediately, saying it was not a matter for juvenile court jurisdiction. Gilmer asked for more time before entering a plea, and Judge Hardy granted him a delay until 9:30 a. m. January 10.

BOTH DENT SHOOTING

Both Hickman and Hunt have denied firing the fatal shot in the hold-up of Tom's Pharmacy. Hunt having declared he did not use his weapon on the occasion. However, it was reported that several witnesses testified before the grand jury that shots were fired by Hunt.

Both youths confessed taking part in the hold-up. Hickman admitted firing shots, but declared that Hunt's weapon was of the same calibre as the fatal bullet, while his own was of a different calibre. Neither weapon was found after the murder.

NEW INVESTIGATION

Walsh today issued a statement saying he had started an independent investigation of the rumor that Hickman might have had an accomplice in the Parker crime. Walsh did not apply today for a court order for the taking of depositions of witnesses in Kansas City. He had been expected to leave for that city tonight, but now probably will start tomorrow after obtaining the necessary orders. Walsh plans to obtain statements of former associates of Hickman to bear out, by a showing of actions and tendencies in early life, the insanity defense already outlined.

Naval officers would make no estimate of the probable length of time necessary to dislodge Sandino from his present stronghold, pointing out that this will depend largely on weather conditions and the methods of warfare adopted by Sandino.

The force of Sandino attempting to form a republic, in the event he has issued such a proclamation, was revealed in the fact that the greater part of the region over which his followers hold sway is composed of a mountain wilderness. There are only a few smaller cities and towns under his control and it is believed the inhabitants of these places would be glad to be relieved of the necessity of paying tribute to the bandit leader and providing food and supplies for his foraging horde of followers.
